OUR CREED

I believe in the United States of America, as a government of the people, by the people, for the people, whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic, a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; a perfect union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity, for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag and to defend it against all enemies.

The Imperial Factory City

While other parts of the country are suffering from a restricted fuel supply, Shreveport Louisiana, is producing and burning in her factories, business buildings and homes all the Natural Gas necessary for business efficiency and comfort—and there is plenty to spare of the cheapest fuel in the world.

Shreveport has sufficient Natural Gas now flowing and yet to be produced to supply a thousand factories indefinitely. Manufacturers are as likely as not to get a gas well on their own premises. Gas for manufacturing purposes costs 11c per thousand feet, less 30%.

Cheap Factory Sites

Manufacturers can obtain cheap sites in several additions to Shreveport. Living conditions for workmen are excellent, with cheap domestic fuel, vegetable gardens the year around, a mild climate, wholesome water and good moral conditions. There is little, if any, malaria in Shreveport, which is on record as one of the healthiest cities of its class in the United States.

Iron, Wood and Cotton

Shreveport is in the center of a vast territory in which all the raw materials necessary to the manufacture of a great variety of commodities are to be found in abundance and relatively cheap. It has the lowest freight rates of any similar community in the South, due to the fact that it is on a navigable river, and is a railroad center. Write to the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce or to the Lions Club of Shreveport for further particulars.

A Forward Look

Speech of acceptance by the newly elected President, Mr. L. H. Lewis, August 20, 1918, at St. Louis, before the Second Annual Convention of the International Association of Lions Clubs

Gentlemen of the Convention: To my way of thinking, no prosperity, however great, can possibly compare with the feeling of satisfaction that goes with the knowledge of the fact that you are well thought of among men, and I am grateful to you, gentle-means unmindful of the fact that you expect much from me as your directing head. At the same time, let me remind you that I also expect much of you gentlemen and of the unit clubs that you represent, if the work of this organization during the coming year is to

President International Association of Lions Clubs and Past President Lions Club of Dallas

men, beyond measure of expression, for this honor that you have conferred upon me today.

In accepting the trust and the duties that most naturally come with the office of President of the International Association of Lions Clubs, I am by no go on in the manner that we hope it will, so that at the next convention we can say that we have rendered to the best of our ability in service to the International Association. I realize that some of you perhaps have come here with thoughts that some things weren't exactly as you would like them to be. You have possibly thought you were not getting enough out of the International Association through the office of Secretary-Treasurer, and perhaps many other thoughts and ideas of this kind have crept into the minds of some of you, but it has been my observation that the source from which the greater amount of complaint has come is the very source that has rendered the lesser amount of support to the Secretary-Treasurer's office. I say that in the very kindest of feeling. I say it because I want to impress upon the delegates who are here present the need of returning to their home cities and their home clubs and urging upon their home clubs that they will give to the International Association (that is to say, the officers who are directing the policies of the association) their closest and best co-operation. We have much to be thankful for when we measure our activities and compare them with the activities of other clubs.

Gentlemen, I feel frankly, regardless of any little differences of opinion that have existed heretofore, regardless of any little jealousies or little ideas of dissatisfaction pro or con, that we have accomplished a great deal in the two conventions of this International Association. In the convention last year in Dallas, a concrete foundation was laid and the organization was builded upon a substructure that made possible this convention here today, or rather this year. At this convention we have overcome quite a number of the difficulties that were discussed at the first convention, and which in fact had been passed on to this convention, because of the feeling that another year's growth would make it possible for us to see things in an entirely different light. I feel, I say, that we have much to be thankful for, because we have accomplished in two years through a clean, dignified process of elimination, steps that in the life of a great many clubs and organizations have not been possible of accomplishment in eight or ten years. It is not possible for any organization to be builded over night and it is only by weeding out the undesirable things here and there, and by strengthening here and there, that we can make an organization which will stand the test of time and that we can live up to the principles already set up for us and the standards which we hope to advance from time to time.

I sincerely hope each and every one of the delegates who are here present will take it upon himself upon his return home, to say to the members of their respective clubs that the International Association of Lions Clubs will go forward during this next fiscal year to an even greater extent than it has gone forward in the past two years. And I want you to pledge me before you go home that if you have in your minds at this time any little personal feelings that ought to be aired before this convention, that you will air them, so that we can say at the close of this convention that there is not a discord in it or any unharmoniousness elimination needed with the activities we have had here. I certainly appreciate beyond measure of expression the honor you have conferred upon me. I will try to live up to what I believe you expect of me and I promise that I will do everything I consistently can; and by consistently, I mean of course, with the duties that are already mine, to push the Lions Clubs—the International Association and the member clubs—ahead during this next year. I thank you. (Loud applause.)

How The Lions Can Help Win The War

By W. A. Lybrand, Lion

In a day when millions upon millions of men and women are giving their best thought to the problem, how individuals and organizations can best do their part in the one business of our country, when each member of each Lions Club is giving his keenest thought to plans for his own and his Club's service to the nation—it is difficult for any one man to speak on the subject "How the Lions Clubs Can Help Win the War" without seeming presumptuous.

However, the more zealous an organization in any good cause, the more willing it is to listen to the necessity for continued action.

The lesson the American people are daily learning is that this is a War of the entire nation; that while the incident of being of a particular age and particular condition, has caused certain men to be selected by the nation to battle in the uniform of our Republic, those who have been left at home have been no less positively selected by the nation to fight this War in their own particular spheres.

The only reasoning by which any man can maintain his self-respect while staying at home while others give up all to engage actually in the Nation's battle, is that he has been selected by his nation to serve his country in his own sphere in civilian life; that he is put by the Government on his honor to let all that he does be an act in winning the war. His conscience must be the tribunal before which he justifies the method in which he spends his time.

The business of each is to keep his own conscience alert and to waken the public conscience and keep it keyed to the highest sense of patriotic service.

No set of men should be more capable or zealous in the performance of such duty than the membership of this organization, the purpose of which is "Service".

The experience of the Clubs which it has been my good fortune to know has been that Club meetings at which no business interests of the members have been allowed to enter, meetings at which the problems of service to the local community and to the nation have been the engrossing subjects of discussion, have resulted in interest and attendance which the Clubs were unable to attain by any artificial stimulating of attendance, and have caused the names of the members of those Clubs to heavily swell the list of those who contribute actively in time and money to each of the many War works that we have met in the last year.

Each Club will work out, in the light of its local conditions, the most effective method by which it, as a body and its members as individuals, can take part in those movements in which the civilian is doing his part in winning the War. How successful each Club is in its activities, how potent its membership is as a factor in winning the War, and how great is the Club's effect upon the public consciousness of necessity for service, depends solely upon the Club's conscience—upon how keen that conscience is to reject any demand upon the Club's time which could further only the private ends of its members—how keen that conscience is to reject any action prompted by selfish motives of Club aggrandizement.

The word Service has taken on a new meaning. How much the Lions Clubs can help in winning the War is answered by how well the Club conscience has learned this new meaning of service.

The power of a Club in a community is not merely the influence of one individual multiplied by the number of its members. The secret of the influence of an organization is that peculiar power

The Second Annual Convention A Big Success

At St. Louis, August 19, 20 and 21, 1918

On Sunday, August 18, 1918, delegates from the East, North, South and West arrived at the convention headquarters in St. Louis. The day was fine and the Lions of St. Louis, headed by Wm. Gray, President of the St. Louis Club, were on hand to greet visiting Lions with welcoming hands, smiles and warm hearts, and all delegates were received in the Mound City with true Southern hospitality, which made everyone glad to be there.

E. N. Kaercher, Chairman of the Convention Committee, and Wm. J. Power, both of St. Louis, were in charge of the registration book, to which all Lions were escorted and asked to attach their signatures. The first to get their names on the register were Chas. W. A. McCormack and J. A. Bobo of Austin, Texas, followed by A. V. Davenport, Tulsa, G. W. Lavery, Okmulgee, and O. C. Lasher, Geo. E. Poulter and H. C. Potterf, Ardmore, all from the great State of Oklahoma. Two rather portly gentlemen who rubbed shoulders while registering, were J. J. Boyle, President of the Lions Club of Houston, and Melvin Jones of Chicago, the Secretary-Treasurer of the International Association. Both plead guilty to being plump.

G. M. Cunningham, Secretary of the Houston Club, accompanied Mr. Boyle. Mr. Cunningham seemed to know everybody and was kept busy introducing the Lions to each other.

The Dallas delegation, seven strong, headed by L. H. Lewis and A. C. Ebie, was also on hand early.

The "Big Six" from Chicago arrived at 6 P. M. and immediately set up a roar for eatables. They wore purple ribbons inscribed in gold—"We want the Convention in 1919." They claimed to have among their delegates a Lion standing 6 feet 6 inches in height, and another 6 feet 6 inches in circumference, and after looking them over, neither claim was disputed.

Dr. C. C. Reid, of Denver, was one of the early arrivals as was Jesse Robinson of Oakland, Cal., who came in about 7 o'clock Sunday evening. From that time on there were delegates arriving from various points until late Monday morning. The number of delegates on hand Sunday evening made it possible for a number of the committees to get together for some preliminary work before the opening of the convention on Monday morning, and, in fact, a few of the Committees worked far into the night. The result was immediately apparent, for an unprecedented amount of work was accomplished during the Monday sessions of the Convention.

The Second Annual Convention of the International Association of Lions Clubs was called to order by President William Gray of the St. Louis Club at 11 o'clock Monday morning, August 19, 1918, at the Convention Headquarters at St. Louis, the series of sessions being opened in timely manner by having the delegates and members rise and sing "America." After an invocation by Mr. J. J. Parker, of Little Rock, Ark., Mr. Gray introduced in behalf of the Lions Club of St. Louis, Mayor Henry W. Kiel, who in an eloquent speech, warmly welcomed the Lions to his city. Mr. Gray then introduced Mr. Jesse Robinson of Oakland, Cal., who responded to the Mayor's speech of welcome as follows:

Response to Mayor's Address of Welcome

"Mr. Chairman, Mr. Mayor, fellow delegates and the ladies of fellow delegates: It is with a great deal of pleasure—may I say a great deal of pride, that I rise to my feet at this time and on behalf of the delegates and the officers and Board of Directors of the International Association of Lions Clubs receive through you, Mr. Mayor, the cordiality of the City of St. Louis and the hospitality of its citizens.

As you know, we have gathered here from every corner of the United States as delegates—from the North to the sunny South, from the overheated Atlantic to the cool vineyards and orchards of the Pacific heights—delegates with different ideas, with different environments, with different codes and yet, with it all, Mr. Mayor, I say to you that our hearts and our minds beat and think as one for that great and glorious flag which is to us the emblem of liberty, equality and democracy in this, the greatest garden spot of individual liberty on earth today. (Applause.)

God has granted that that emblem for all these years shall be raised once more in the cause of freedom and democracy and that the Hun, both within and without our coasts, with all the repugnancy which he represents, shall be brushed forever away amid the ruins of his own mistaken autoeracy, and so, my fellow delegates, I say to you as this convention assembles and we proceed through the next three days to our labors, let us not forget to offer in our hearts a silent prayer for our boys who are in "No Man's Land," that they may return to us again safely and that the sacrifice they are making for you and me on the altar of equality, liberty and democracy may not be in vain.

And to you, Mr. Mayor, I say that we have gathered here in your beautiful city, as you have pointed out to us in your address, for service and for serious labor which calls for serious thought as never before in our history. And, as we receive from you, Mr. Mayor, the cordiality and the hospitality of this city, we assure you from our hearts that we are fully mindful of the duty we are called here to perform and that we are fully prepared to perform it. We thank you, Mr. Mayor." (Applause.)

Mr. Gray then introduced Dr. W. P.

Woods of Evansville, Ind., President of the International Association of Lions Clubs, who took the chair and delivered a brief speech after which the regular order of business was taken up. We will not attempt here to give a detailed account of the work of the Convention but publish elsewhere in this issue the reports of several of the Committees. These Committee reports are very complete and state clearly some of the things for which the International Association of Lions Clubs is striving.

Officers Elected

The nominating Committee nominated the following officers, who were all duly elected:

President.....L. H. Lewis, Dallas, Texas
1st Vice-President.....Jesse Robinson, Oakland, Cal.
2nd Vice-President.....Dr. C. C. Reid, Denver, Colo.
3rd Vice-President.....
.....F. C. Brinkman, Jr., Shreveport, La.
Secretary-Treasurer.....Melvin Jones, Chicago, Ill.

Directors

A. V. Davenport.....Tulsa, Okla.
Ewen W. Cameron.....Minneapolis, Minn.
J. J. Boyle.....Houston, Texas

Dr. Woods, in turning the Convention over to his successor, spoke as follows:

"Just a word or two before turning over the convention to my successor. In doing this, I do it with a feeling that there is a great work before the Association for the coming year and I also feel that the nominating committee has made an excellent choice in all of the officers. I don't see how they could really have done any better, and I believe that you have a set of officers that will work for the upbuilding and the best interests of the organization. Let me urge upon each and every one of you delegates to go home to your club and give in every way that you can, your best and utmost and active support to the officers elected, for without the support of each and every club, they cannot succeed in the manner in which they ought; but if each and every club will work conscientiously and faithfully for the upbuilding of the organization and will try to assist the officers elected to perform and discharge their duties, this organization will grow far more than you have any idea. Indeed, let us hope that when we meet a year from now we will have twice the number of clubs and twice the number of delegates.

I desire to thank you for the interest you have shown in the organization during the past year and for all courtesies that you have shown me."

President Lewis took the chair amid were then taken up and disposed of, the Committee on Constitution and By-Laws having recommended a number of changes, which were discussed and voted on one at a time. This Committee was composed of Jesse Robinson, Oakland, Cal., R. A. Kleinschmidt, Oklahoma City, Okla., E. W. Cameron, Minneapolis, Minn. and G. M. Cunningham, Houston, Texas., who all deserve special commendation for the service they rendered in this connection. The great applause and in a ringing speech, which is printed elsewhere in this issue, gave voice to his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him and stated that he hoped, by hard work and with the co-operation of the Clubs, to see the International Association of Lions Clubs go forward for the next fiscal year to an even greater extent than it had in the last two years.

Reports from various committees changes recommended by them and adopted by the Convention will make for a much better working organization.

1919 Convention

Both Oakland, Cal., and Chicago, Ill., desired the 1919 Convention, but Jesse Robinson of Oakland, in view of war conditions at present, conceded the 1919 Convention to Chicago, although stating that Oakland would come back for the 1920 gathering. A motion was then duly made, seconded and passed that the invitation of the Chicago delegates be accepted and that the 1919 Convention be held in Chicago.

Vote of Thanks to St. Louis Club.

Mr. Kleinschmidt of Oklahoma City, Okla., then proposed a vote of thanks to the St. Louis Club for the magnificent hospitality and entertainment which the convention had received at the hands of the members of the St. Louis Club and of their beautiful ladies, in which they had more than upheld the reputation of the Mound City for true Southern hospitality. This motion was carried amid loud applause.

All in all, it was a most successful convention and was appropriately closed at 1 P. M., Wednesday, by President Lewis in these words:

President Lewis to Visit Each Lions Club

"I take it that the business of the convention has ended and so I am going to declare this convention adjourned sine die. In doing so, I just want to make this parting statement to you as President: Unless something in connection with the war work interferes, it is my present plan at some time within the coming year, to visit each and every Lions Club throughout the United States (Applause). And I want it understood, regardless of the distance from Dallas, or the inconveniences of travel, I am going to come at my own traveling expense and on my own expense of time. (Applause.)

(Convention adjourned sine die.)

Lions Helping the War

exerted by unified action. A thousand candles burning in a thousand cottages are merely twinkling incidents in the night; the light of a thousand candles unified in the lamps of a light-house focuses the attention of all mariners and directs their course.

The action of Clubs as important as ours is watched by the communities and has an influence of which we little dream. The Club conscience determines the quality of light which it shall shed upon the community. If that light be tinged with selfishness, it will give excuse to those weaker members of the community who are leaning to selfishness. If it be the pure rays of unselfish public service, it will be an inspiration to its members for higher and more effective action and a shaming to the members of a community who place self above service and a strength to those who have already learned the littleness of self-serving.

The appreciation of the new meaning of service by such men as compose our membership, will valiantly and effectively solve the problem of how Lions Clubs can help win the War.

St. Louis Entertains Royally

As was to be expected, the Lions Club of St. Louis maintained the Mound City's reputation for hospitality in providing entertainment, both for the delegates, and for the families and friends of the latter. Among the more notable features were the following formally scheduled events:

August 19th

12:30—Luncheon at the Marquette Hotel.

7:30 P. M.—Theatre party, Forest

Park Highlands.

August 20th

For visiting ladies. Trip through the shopping district and visit to the top of Railway Exchange Building.

12:30 P. M.—Luncheon at the Marquette Hotel for delegates.

3:30 P. M.—Auto sight-seeing trip for visiting delegates and ladies.

7:30 P. M.—Banquet at the Mission Inn.

August 21st

Luncheon at the Marquette Hotel.

Echoes from the Convention

One of the many pleasant features of the convention was a telegram from the Cirgonion Club of Los Angeles, Cal., announcing that it wished to affiliate with the International Association of Lions Clubs. The telegram was read to the convention on Monday by the Secretary, Melvin Jones, and was enthusiastically received. It was immediately voted to accept the application, and Jesse Robinson (of Oakland, Cal.) was appointed to go to Los Angeles upon his return to the coast and formally induct the Cirgonians into the Lion family.

* * *

The St. Louis Lions did themselves proud in entertaining the visiting Lions—luncheons, automobile rides, theatre parties and banquets followed each other in rapid succession. The visitors enjoyed every minute of their time there and we say three cheers for the St. Louis Lions. They certainly have a live club and one that is a credit to the Association.

* * *

L. H. Lewis, of Dallas, Texas, arrived early and spent a busy time of it, being called from one group to another where questions were being discussed in advance of action upon them by the Convention. Dallas was well represented by active, hustling Lions, and we are not at all surprised that they have one of the best Clubs in the Association.

* * *

The delegates from Memphis, W. H. Bucher, G. O. Bowden and W. W. Deupree, had a hard time of it. They got lost somewhere enroute and did not get in until Tuesday morning. However, it did not take them long to make up for most of the lost time.

Ewen W. Cameron, the Lion from Minneapolis, left his home Den in a shower and it seems that the shower decided to attend the Convention also, as it came right along with him.

The Committee on Emblems in its report recommended the adoption of a lapel button, bearing the insignia of the Club, the button to be offered in two grades, an inexpensive button and a button of better quality. The Clubs are to purchase the inexpensive button in quantities and furnish each of their members with one. The other button is to be purchased by the individual members who might desire a button of better material.

* * *

There was an immense amount of work accomplished by the Convention and some of the Committees worked as late as 2 o'clock in the morning to get their reports ready. A spirit such as that will overcome any obstacle. It is a source of satisfaction to know that we have able men so actively interested in the welfare of the Association.

* * *

Even the weather man seemed to be working in harmony with the St. Louis Lions. He turned on a supply of cooler weather for the opening of the convention Monday morning, which was greatly appreciated by everybody.

* * *

W. A. Smith, of Denver, was going in and about the hotel on Sunday evening looking for his club mate, Dr. C. C. Reid, who it appears wanted to make sure of being at the convention on time and left Denver in June. He arrived safely and on time, via Boston and Chicago.

* * *

F. C. Brinkman, Jr., and Geo. C. Dimick, of Shreveport, La., were busy workers at the Convention.

* * *

Edward J. Wenner, of Waterloo, Iowa, was on hand watching the delegates with a trained legal eye.

* * *

It was a close race between Texas and Oklahoma for the honor of having the largest number of delegates at the Convention but Texas won out with eighteen while Oklahoma had seventeen.

The Lions Code of Ethics*

1. To show my faith in the worthiness of my vocation by industrious application to the end that I may merit a reputation for quality of service.

2. To seek success and to demand all fair remuneration or profit as my just due, but to set no profit or success at the price of my own self-respect, lost because of unfair advantage taken or because of questionable acts on my part.

3. To be fair to my competitors, loyal to my clients or customers, and true to myself.

4. Whenever a doubt arises as to the right or ethics of my position or action toward my fellow man, to resolve such doubt against myself.

5. To hold friendship as an end and not a means. To hold that true friendship exists not on account of the service performed by one to another, but that true friendship demands nothing but accepts service in the spirit it is given. To understand that one of the greatest assets of a professional or a business man is his friends and that any advantage gained by reason of friendship is eminently ethical and proper.

6. To always bear in mind my obligations as a citizen to my nation, my state and my community and to give to them my unswerving loyalty in word, act and deed. To give to them freely of my time, labor and means.

7. To aid my fellowman by giving my sympathy to those in distress, my aid to the weak and my substance to the needy.

8. To be careful with my criticism and liberal with my praise. To build up and not destroy.

*A code presented to the St. Louis Convention by the Committee on a Code of Ethics and unanimously adopted.

News from the Clubs

Minneapolis, Minnesota

The Lions Club of Minneapolis meets every Friday noon at 12:15 at the Elks Club. Lions from any part of the United States who happen to be in Minneapolis are always welcome guests.

On Friday, September 13, the Lions Club of Minneapolis had as guests, for the regular weekly luncheon, members of the Lions Club of St. Paul. It was the first time the Twin City Clubs met jointly and was such an enjoyable meeting that the two local Clubs expect to keep in touch with each other by frequent visits.

Cub Cameron gave a very interesting report of the convention at St. Louis. He also spoke of the future policies of the International Association of Lions Clubs and made a strong plea for the two clubs to stand behind the National Organization and make the coming year a memorable one in the history of the Clubs.

The meeting was somewhat disturbed by the appearance of a Traffic "Cop" who was looking for the driver of a certain St. Paul car. The president of the St. Paul Club responded to the call for the number and was informed of his alleged traffic violations. Being Friday, the thirteenth, and coming from St. Paul, too, the officer overlooked the offense this time, as several members of the Minneapolis Club vouched for his future automobile conduct.

Friday evening, Sept. 27, the Minneapolis Lions Club gave a dinner dance at the Elks Club, which was well attended. These events given by this Club are always very successful social affairs and are looked forward to with great interest by the wives and sweet-hearts of the Club members.

Oakland, California

Everybody in Oakland has heard of the Lions Club. It is a leader in War Activities and in all movements for civic betterment and by its energetic work along these lines has earned for itself the high regard of the officials and citizens of Oakland. It has recently participated in a successful drive to raise $50,000 for the Boy Scouts of that city and it now putting its whole force into the Fourth Liberty Loan drive. With a man like Robinson to lead them, they'll put Oakland over the top in short order.

El Reno, Oklahoma

The El Reno Lions Club has 50 active members and has two members in the service of Uncle Sam. This Club is active in all meritorious local undertakings and is rapidly making an enviable name for itself. It is now engaged in helping to put El Reno over the top on the Fourth Liberty Loan.

McAlester, Oklahoma

The McAlester Lions Club was organized June 13, 1918, with 22 charter members and it now has 37 members, a mighty good record. Chas. S. Troy, Secretary, writes that they recently had the pleasure of going eight strong to Hartshorne, Okla., to be present at the installation of a Lions Club there by Mr. Cunningham.

Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

Oklahoma City Lions Club will have for their guests members of the Lions Club of Shawnee, on October 31st. This will be an evening social meeting, and the invitation includes the ladies. (Reprinted from "Meat for the Lions," a handsome four-page weekly, issued by this club.)

Waco, Texas

The Waco Club has advanced from the place of a civic society to that of a city institution, and it seems to be permanently established as a going concern that gets results while it has a good time going. During the past six months this Club has included in its activities promotion of better street signs, public library support, municipal detention home, extension of car lines, improved highways, telephone regulation, natural gas, war services of many kinds, assistance to Camp Mac-Arthur. That's enough to show that they are a bunch of hustlers.

Chicago, Illinois

The annual meeting for the election of officers was held Thursday evening, October 3, 1918, and was a well attended and enthusiastic meeting. The Club had pulled through a crucial year, prosperous and progressive. A total of 55 new members had been accepted during the year. The incoming officers were welcomed in speech and in song; the outgoing were given well deserved praise. A resolution was unanimously passed commending the good work of President Clemons during the past year. Clemons made a neat and witty speech and Livingston, the newly elected president, responded in his usual happy manner.

The big event of the evening occurred just after Melvin Jones, the retiring secretary, had made a rousing speech in response to his election as vice-president, and in response to a resolution of appreciation of his great work for the Club during the past five years, and regretting that his duties with The International Association this year prevented his continuing the work of the local secretaryship, which was passed unanimously amid great enthusiasm. Trienens was the spokesman in the presentation to Jones of a Liberty Bond and a basket of flowers as a slight token of the esteem of his fellow Lions.

Frank Hallenbeck dropped in, made a good talk, and then beat it to talk for the Liberty Loan. It's a pleasure to note the large number of our members who are actively engaged in the patriotic work of helping to put the Fourth Liberty Loan over the top.

The purchase of another Liberty Bond by the Club was authorized.

D. S. Sattler was not present at the meeting. He was suddenly called to service by Uncle Sam and is stationed at Camp Grant, where the Government has a newly established morgue which is conducted under the immediate supervision of Mr. Sattler. Every Lion is proud of the patriotic service he is giving there.

New Lions Clubs

Cunningham is Busy—New Club at Vinita, Oklahoma

On August 7th, 1918, a Lions Club was organized at Vinita. Mr. O. L. Rider was elected president. F. S. E. Amos, secretary. Mr. L. M. Aldridge, of Vinita, attended the convention, was introduced to the delegates by Mr. G. M. Cunningham, and gave a fine talk on behalf of the members of the Vinita Club. He predicted a great future for the club.

Holdenville, Oklahoma

On September 9th, a group of Holdenville's best citizens held a meeting and organized a Lions Club with 37 members as the original nucleus. The club promises to be of real value to Oklahoma, as the members are interesting themselves in up-to-date topics for the benefit of the city, state and nation. The following were elected to office:

J. L. Adams, President.

J. C. Howell, Secretary-Treasurer.

They plan to have a meeting every Monday.

Hartshorne, Oklahoma

A club of 20 members was organized here August 9th. Members of the Mc-Alester Club were active in completing this organization, which we believe will be of great benefit to Hartshorne, as the members represent the larger enterprises in the city, and are awake to the good that can be accomplished through a Lions Club.

G. A. Reidt was elected President; B. C. Sims, Secretary-Treasurer.

President Lewis in Hospital

International President L. H. Lewis, of Dallas, Texas, was operated upon for appendicitis recently. Latest reports indicate that he is doing nicely and gradually recovering his strength. The Lions are sincerely hoping for his early complete recovery.

Vol. I. NOVEMBER, 1918 No. 1

Lionism

Lionism, another word for Americanism; real, red-blooded, two fisted, "Let's go," Americanism. Wherever there is a Lions Club, there you will find a live force working for the up-building of the individual,—the community,—the state,—and the nation. The real test of the value of any activity today is "Will it help to win the war?" Every Lions Club is applying this test to its activities and it is most gratifying to note the vim, energy and "go-get-'em" spirit with which the Lions Clubs are participating in all the Win-the-War activities. When the war is won the Lions can point with pride to the enviable record they have made in helping to bring about the happy ending.

Lions Clubs As City Boosters

What a pace the Shreveport Lions are setting with their full page advertisement of the advantages which their thriving city offers to manufacturers! Their move is characteristic of the energetic steps which Lions Clubs in various cities are taking for the advancement of local interests.

War Gardens: Patriotic War Gardeners Help to Slam the Kaiser

Did you have a garden this year?

The Department of Agriculture estimates that there were at least 5,000,000 home gardens this year and that they have been instrumental in greatly increasing the food supply of the nation. The value of this increase at this time is almost inestimable. It is hoped that next year the output of the war gardens will be double that of this year. Food Controller, Herbert Hoover, says that there will be a world food shortage for at least four years after we have won the war. That means that it is necessary for the United States to produce food to the utmost of her ability. Let's start the ball rolling now for next year's gardens. Let no man escape who has the time and opportunity to raise a garden. Let's make our slogan, "Less golf, less tennis, less automobiling and MORE WAR GARDENING."

The Hun Wanted War: He Now Wants Peace

Peace proposals and propaganda are coming insidiously and insistently from Germany and from German-influenced quarters. Why? Has the Hun suddenly become a devout lover of peace and good will among the nations of the earth? Has he come to a realization of the horrors and devastation which come with every great war? Has he suddenly become awake to the cries of murdered children, ravished women, enslaved men—and nurses and wounded soldiers murdered in hospitals and hospital ships,—deeds of which he is wantonly guilty and with which he hoped to terrorize the world? He who, when victory appeared within his grasp, hesitated at no outrage on a horrified civilization that would in his bestial spirit of warped judgment help him toward his goal of world mastery. But now that retribution is at hand, this bully,—who on the battlefield in a tight place throws up his hands, cries "Kamerad," and then through a trick, kills the captor who had taken mercy on him,—this bully wishes us to believe that black is white, that we can sign an agreement with him that he would not break at the first opportunity,—he who regards solemnly signed treaties as mere scraps of paper. Shall we give him peace for the asking?

When the allied armies are in Berlin; after the Beast of Berlin, his aids, advisers and people, who wanted war and started war, have had so much war and are so sick of war that they and their descendants will have no stomach for war in the next thousand years; when the German people have ousted the present German government completely and have formed a government founded on the principles of right, justice and equality among men; when that happens, then will be time enough to talk peace.

Christmas Presents and Bonuses

Don't forget, Lions, that the Treasury Department has asked that Christmas presents and all salary increases, bonuses, awards, etc., to employees, should this year, be given in War Savings Stamps. Make your plans now to follow this suggestion.

Spanish Influenza

Lions Clubs can perform a great service by arousing their various communities to the dangers of an epidemic of the so-called Spanish Influenza and by helping to educate the people as to the best means to avoid this disease. The newspapers are publishing freely, suggestions from medical authorities, as to how to avoid and how to treat the disease and we should do our utmost to follow the suggestions given and use our influence to cause others to do the same.

When a man hates you, don't worry—

When a woman loves you, look out!

SOLDIERS WILL BE GUESTS OF LIONS CLUB SAT. NIGHT

Members and Their Wives Will Go to Barton Springs to Help
War Camp Service Plans.

UNVEILING OF TIRE POLE THIS EVENING

Governor Has Been Invited to Assist in Ceremonies and Dr.
J. W. Graham Will Respond

Arrangements to participate as hosts to the soldiers who are invited to Barton Springs for recreation next Saturday evening, were made at a meeting of members of the Lions' club last night.

Also arrangements for the dedication of the Red Cross tire pole erected by the club at Eleventh and Congress was announced for this evening.

Members as Hosts.

The club, as a part of its work in connection with the war camp community service, which is conducting the recreational features for soldiers in Austin, agreed to pay for the refreshments necessary and for their wives and daughters to assist in the event as hostesses.

All of the club members and their wives will be supplied with sleeve badges and at the meeting last night the work of the several committees of the membership that is to officiate was planned and the committees appointed as follows:

Red Cross Pole.

The dedication of the Red Cross tire pole will be this evening at 8:15 o'clock, at which time all members of the Lions club and all members of the Red Cross and all others who have tires they would like to contribute to the Red Cross are expected to assemble at Eleventh and Congress avenue.

Arrangements have been completed for the ceremony of the unveiling of the pole.

Sam Sparks was invited to make the address before the ceremony, explaining the origin and purpose in view.

This will be responded to in behalf of the Red Cross by Dr. J. W. Graham.

LIONS CLUB HAS PLAN OF SOLUTION OF WATER PROBLEM

Revival of Low Dam Idea Is Advocated in Order That Organization May Show Public Spirit.

CITY OFFICERS IN FAVOR IT IS SAID

Committee of Four Appointed for Purpose of Conferring With City Commissioners at Early Date.

At a special called meeting of the Lions' club last night at the Austin Chamber of Commerce the subject of the city water supply was broached and with characteristic energy and public spirit the organization went on record in an effort to do something.

On motion of David Doorn a committee of four members of the club was appointed to confer with the city commissioners on the construction of a low dam to protect the city's water supply.

Four on Committee.

The four members appointed are David Doorn, Sam Sparks, Joseph Keen and Thurlow Weed.

In making the motion Mr. Doorn said the Lions club should take some action showing that it was alive to the situation with reference to the city water supply.

Demand Increasing.

The city is already committed to supply for military camps that it is having difficulty to fulfil and there is not a promise of any kind, except that of rain, that warrants the belief that the Colorado will again reach the stage of submersion of the sand beaches.

The members of the club who have given the subject thought evidently have in their minds a belief that storage of the water of the Colorado is the only safe method for the city to adopt in securing from that source any guarantee of permanent supply.

Mayor Opposed.

At the close of the Lions' club meeting a committee of three composed of Sam Sparks, Judge J. C. Wall and David Doorn, was appointed to draft resolutions on the death of William Ely, which will be read and spread on the records of the club at its next meeting.

Los Angeles Cirgonian Club Affiliates with the Lions

The Cirgonian Club of Los Angeles, California, a club which was organized several years ago under the name Cirgonian, and now has about 100 members, applied to the International Association of Lions Clubs for a charter. While the Convention was in session, it sent the following telegram:

"Cirgonian Club of Los Angeles expresses its desire to affiliate with Lions Clubs. Please instruct us what to do. Send us Constitution, By-Laws, literature, etc. Sorry we cannot send delegate to convention. We rely upon you to represent us.

W. P. Musaus, Secretary."

Arrangements were made to have the First Vice President and District Governor of California, Jesse Robinson, to induct them into our association. Mr. W. P. Musaus, Secretary-Treasurer of the Cirgonian, since the convention has visited the headquarters of the International Association, and after thoroughly going into the standing of the Club, the personnel of the members of each club as well as the financial standing of the same, and the progress and growth of both the local clubs and the association, telegraphed his club to immediately complete the arrangements and become part of the Association at once. This is the fifth club which, originally organized under another name and working independently, has joined the Lions organization.

Letters from "Over There"

ABOUT OUR "BOYS IN FRANCE TOBACCO FUND"

(A letter from "Over There")

London, Eng., Sept. 9, 1918.

Lions Club, Oklahoma City,

Dear Sirs:

Received and passed out, to eight of the boys in our detachment, the box containing eight packages of cigarettes. Also gave your card to one of the boys, but to make sure you received a reply of thankfulness from us, I drop you a line myself. I can assure you the boys all appreciate your kindness and join me in thanks. We also thank the Red Cross for what they have done for us. Bull Durham, when obtainable, sells for one and troy ha' penny, or one shilling and three half pennies; in U. S. it would be twenty-seven cents.

Piper Heidsieck chewing tobacco sells for thirty-seven cents a cut, or as they call that amount here it would be one six pence ha' penny, equal to one shilling and a half pence or pennies. We are here in England for training and have been here about six months, so suppose we will be going to France before long. Most all of the boys are anxious to get over there and do their bit toward getting the Kaiser. We are not only getting training ourselves, but are training pilots.

We are not stationed in London, it is only that our mail comes through the London office that makes our address as it is. Thanking you all again, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

Sergt. 712929 M. E. Grizzle,
248th Aero Squadron, B. Flight,
In care American Expeditionary
Forces,
London, England.

Lionism and Loyalty Are Synonymous

From reports coming in, one of the surest things in the world is this: That the Lions were 100 per cent efficient in helping to put the Fourth Liberty Loan "over the top."

"OVER THERE"

Dear Friend Jones:

I drop you a line to let you know that I am now in France. Have traveled over the United States, Canada and England and have the good luck to be quartered at present in one of the prettiest spots in France. Am feeling fine and enjoying my soldier life immensely. Weigh about 175 pounds now, so you know I haven't lost any weight for I only weighed 160 pounds before I entered the service. Am driving a truck which gives me the opportunity to see every part of France. How are the Lions getting along and how is business? With best regards to all my friends in Chicago, I remain Yours respectfully, William Niefert.

Company "B," 108 Ammunition Train, A. E. F., France.

P. S. If the boys' slogan comes true I will be home by Christmas, for they all say over here "To Heaven, to hell or to Hoboken by Christmas."

Little Rock Newspaper Publicity

The Lions Club at Little Rock has been trying the plan of advertising their weekly noon meetings in the newspapers, this, in conjunction with a plan of assigning a certain subject to some one member each week on which he is expected to make an address, has resulted in getting out a good attendance to their meetings. It also helps to arouse the interest of outsiders in the clubs, thus making it a comparatively easy matter to fill any vacancies in the membership. The subjects assigned to their members are given out several weeks in advance, thus giving the victim time to prepare for the ordeal. They also, in addition to this, have an outside speaker about every two weeks.

Weekly Club Publications

The Lions Clubs of both Oklahoma City and Dallas, now issue neat and newsy little weekly publications. Both report that these weeklies have worked wonders in keeping up the interest of members in club affairs. Several other clubs, notably the Oakland (Calif.) club are following the same plan and find it very beneficial.

What a decided advantage the happy, smiling, rejoicing, radiating Lion has over the sober, gloomy, sorrowful fellow.

Did any one mistake the start of the Fourth Liberty Loan for New Year's Eve?
